

'The best part of my job is seeing the change in people after treatment'

Place your faith in Andrew McCulloch, Hertfordshire's Consultant in Restorative Dentistry

Nothing knocks your confidence more than the feeling that your teeth are unsightly or discoloured. I see many patients who are frightened to smile, and are worried that their teeth look ugly when they speak (and even avoid having their photograph taken) because of the appearance of their mouth. The best part of my job is seeing the change in them after the simple and pain-free treatments that are available today," says Andrew McCulloch, Hertfordshire's local Consultant in Restorative Dentistry. "Similarly, fears of uncomfortable 'false teeth' and anxiety that dentures may slip embarrassingly or cause problems with eating can be easily resolved by replacing the patient's old, decayed or missing teeth (or old dentures) with permanent undetectable implants, which look and work just like their original teeth. My patients often tell me that they can start eating foods again that they have had to avoid for years."

Andrew, who is based at the Lister in Stevenage, is a dental surgeon of 25 years standing. He trained at the world-renowned Guy's Dental Hospital in London, and it was during his specialist training there that he met his wife, Rachel, who was then Head of the Crown and Bridge Laboratory in the hospital. Rachel is now the Cosmetic Dentistry Adviser in their practice at 178 Handside Lane, Welwyn Garden City, and also the Implant Co-ordinator.

Visiting the practice, you sense immediately the friendly, relaxed atmosphere and their practical approach. The practice is in a converted house that is comfortable and welcoming. The surgery itself is packed with the state of the art equipment that goes with modern day dentistry.

Andrew says: "We have put the focus on investing in the technology that delivers the best value for patients. We are able to deliver quality services at very competitive prices. There is no need for anyone who can get to Welwyn Garden City to travel outside the area (or to London) to get first class treatment at an affordable price."

The team's capabilities include:

- ◆ Rebuilding worn or broken teeth with teeth whitening, new fillings, veneers and metal-free crowns;
- ◆ Replacing missing teeth with dental implants and bridges or dentures;
- ◆ A variety of cosmetic techniques designed to dramatically improve the appearance of your "mouth, teeth, smile and confidence".

To book an initial consultation, call the practice on 01707 323250 and ask for Rachel. For more information, visit www.ajmcculloch.co.uk.
